Title : IBM Tivoli Storage Manager V5.2 Implementation

1. How does IBM Tivoli Storage Manager support tape reclamation of copy pool volumes in an offsite vault?

- A. backs up unexpired data from the client to the new copy pool volumes
- B. marks tape volumes as being eligible for reuse when the last remaining active files status changes to inactive
- C. writes unexpired data from primary storage pools to copy pool tapes that are taken offsite and the original copy pool tapes are then recalled
- D. recalls copy pool tapes from the offsite vault, copies expired data to new copy pool tape volumes and directs the new volumes to the vault, then returns the original tapes to scratch status

Answer: C

2. A customer using a SAN has experienced several hardware failures over the last several months. A storage consultant has decided to validate data as it is being backed up to ensure its integrity. What is the best way to perform this validation?

- A. Setup new copy storage pool.
- B. Schedule an audit library on a daily basis.
- C. Use the volumevalidate option in the server options file.
- D. Use the validateprotocol option to enable Cyclical Redundancy Checking (CRC) at the client.

Answer: D

3. In a current customer environment there is a requirement to back up multiple Oracle servers with large databases using IBM Tivoli Storage Manager. Performance analyses showed that the backup of a database over the existing LAN cannot be completed in the given backup window. Recently, there was a SAN introduced to this environment. Which configuration, in addition to IBM Tivoli Storage Manager for Databases, solves the performance challenges with minimum additional hardware costs?

- A. install a multi-processor Storage Manager server system with an optical juke box
- B. install Managed System for SAN (Storage Agent) on each database server
- C. install a multi-processor Storage Manager server system with an automated tape library on the SAN
- D. install Storage Manager server software with an automated tape library on each database server

Answer: B

4. A customer wants to restore files that were backed up to a Storage Manager server, but the customer's workstation is no longer on the network. What can the customer do to get the files back to the workstation?
